

Redefining How Global Businesses Meet E-Invoicing Mandates

Governments have introduced e-invoicing and continuous transaction controls (CTCs) to simplify the process of accessing and analyzing granular source data on financial and physical supply chains.

In doing so, they have placed the burden of responsibility on organizations to demonstrate that invoicing and other data flows relevant to indirect value added tax (VAT) compliance meet local requirements, no matter the system, to continue to trade without barriers.

Without the right solution, e-invoicing compliance becomes a largely manual process and building custom connections to e-invoicing networks requires substantial IT resources and infrastructure. In partnership with Sovos, Zuora now provides a pre-integrated, fully automated e-invoicing solution that works directly with Zuora's recurring billing.

This means modern businesses, like yours, can leverage critical data already available in your billing system to reduce complexity and meet e-invoicing mandates with one solution.
